Hyland Crest home is lacking direction, Ministry discovers

The Hyland Crest committee of management has been operating for more than 14 years without a detailed policy and as a result, the home is "lacking direction and guidance", a committee member told Haliburton County council last week.

Lutterworth reeve Ron Gambell was commenting on a report completed recently by the Ministry of Community and Social Services at the request of the committee of management.

Committee chairman Bob Vick had declined to comment on the report, turning the floor over to the Lutterworth reeve.

According to Gambell the report said the home is "fairly well run and staffed not too badly." But it notes that there is "not very much cooperation" between the nursing staff, the kitchen staff and the activities director.

Gambell said the main weakness the ministry investigators found was that the committee of management does not have a set of guidelines with which to coordinate the operation of the home.

He said most of the problems cited in the report result from "a lack of communication. We have this everywhere; at the home, in council, everywhere."

The report contains "a lot of recommendations" but "nothing that can't be solved with a little bit of cooperation."

Gambell noted that there is a need for chronic care at the home. "We must face the fact that we have to look after these people," he said, even though chronic care will result in increased costs to the county.

The complete study is expected to be made public following the June meeting of county council. In the meantime, the committee of management will begin drafting a set of policies based on the report's recommendations.

"If the committee gets together with the administrator and the director of nursing, there's no reason we can't have a policy," Gambell told council.

House sold to fictitious buyer, fraud charge laid

A Toronto man has been charged with fraud involving more than $20,000.

Charged is William Bryon Cooper, 45, after Cenvesco Ltd. of Brockville was defrauded for $21,640 when it purchased a second mortgage on February 25, 1980.

Cooper owns property in the Eagle Lake area worth approximately $30,000. In 1978 he already had the property mortgaged for $25,000 but was apparently in need of more money.

Minden OPP say Cooper sold the property to a non-existent William Perry for $53,000. In the agreement, the fictitious Perry was to take over the first mortgage which was held by Lloyd Weldon of Uxbridge. Cooper was to take back a second mortgage of $22,000.

On paper the fictitious Perry was making payments on both the first and second mortgages.

Then Cooper approached Cenvesco Ltd. which agreed to buy the second mortgage. After two payments were made all payments stopped and the first mortgage holder, Weldon, moved to foreclose on the mortgage. But William Perry could not be tracked down from the post office box number given in Toronto.

According to the OPP, Weldon will be able to get his money back out of the property but Cenvesco Ltd. is the victim of the fraud since the property was not worth the amount of the second mortgage.

Cooper is scheduled to appear in court on June 10.

Constable Carl Churly of the Identification branch of Peterborough OPP probed the ruins of a cabin at Silver Maple Motel in Haliburton Monday in the aftermath of a suspected arson incident Sunday. Churly was seeking evidence that the fire was set using naptha gas.

Area lakes in no immediate danger: scientist

Liming push premature County council is told

Any move to begin 'liming' Haliburton County lakes stressed by acidic precipitation would be "premature", a leading expert on the problem has told Haliburton County council.

Dr. Tom Brydges, head of the Limnology and Toxicity branch of the Ontario Ministry of the Environment said last Wednesday that no Haliburton County lakes are "dead" as a result of acidification, and that none are likely to "die" (lose their fish populations) in the immediate future.

Brydges said area lakes are under "acid stress" every spring as acidified snowmelt flows into them, and that some lakes have a lower Ph (measure of acidity) all year round "than we would like", but that none have reached a critically low Ph level yet.

The Ministry scientist was responding to a recent county council resolution which noted that the county intended to begin a 'liming' program, and that asked the Ministry for guidance as to which lakes would benefit from such a program.

Brydges said the ministry is embarking on the second year of a two-year study to determine if "Ph stress" is seriously affecting fish populations in susceptible area lakes.

Until more is known, the Ministry "is not in favour" of municipalities embarking on any programs to artificially increase lake water Ph through the use of a 'basic' material like crushed limestone, Brydges said.

Even if a liming program were justified by existing conditions, it would probably not solve the problem of acid stress in the spring, a stress which is potentially the most damaging to fish, Brydges explained.

If conditions reach a critical stage, a liming program can bring water back to Ph level compatible with fish life. But it will not solve the associated problems of heavy metal precipitate that plague acidified water bodies.

The ministry scientist said liming has been successful in saving salmon populations in acid stressed rivers in Sweden, but that its effects on the smaller bodies of water that feed those rivers have not been very well charted.

To combat acid loading from snowmelt, the Swedes have used tanker trucks to blow powdered limestone on to frozen lakes in winter. Various methods have also been invented to feed pow-

Man admits using naptha gas to set blaze

Cabin burns, arson charge laid

A 59-year old man has been charged with arson after a cabin belonging to Silver Maple Motel in Haliburton, went up in flames at 4 a.m. last Sunday.

Arthur James Genoe was taken to Lindsay jail after being treated at the Haliburton Red Cross Hospital.

Eva Little, of the Silver Maple Motel, said on Monday that Genoe first came to the motel in March. He apparently said he could not get into his cottage which was located in the Loon Lake area and would like to rent a room for a couple of weeks.

After two weeks he wanted to move into one of the cabins and offered to help with some work around the motel. Little said he had been there ever since.

According to the Minden OPP, the cabin was set on fire with naptha gas. The building was completely destroyed with damage estimated at $4,000.

Little said the man in a nearby cabin alerted them to call the Haliburton Fire Department.

Constable Carl Churly from the Peterborough Identification Branch of the OPP was on the scene Monday to positively identify the cause of the blaze.

Haliburton, Victoria Counties agree to share cost with Ministry

Tourist train concept will be studied

The counties of Haliburton and Victoria have taken the first positive step toward the realization of a steam tourist train proposal.

Representatives from both counties and the Town of Lindsay met last Thursday in Lindsay and agreed to be involved in a feasibility study of the project.

The proposal which came before Victoria County council last year suggests that a steam locomotive could travel the abandoned rail line between Lindsay and Haliburton village providing tourists with a different and pleasant mode of transportation.

David Johnston, Victoria County planner, said Tuesday the counties had agreed to share the cost of the study with the Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

The study, which will cost an estimated $30,000, will encompass terms of reference concerning alternate usage of the tracks, the approximate amount of revenue that could be generated by the tourist train. It will also investigate the condition of the track and compare it with the estimate repair cost CN used to justify shutting down the line after a washout in 1978.

Although he is in the process of confirming the financial arrangements, Johnston said he understood the province would cover about two-thirds of the cost of the study leaving the rest for the counties to pay. The counties' share will be based on their assessment and the Town of Lindsay will be included in Victoria County's assessment.

According to Johnston the breakdown of two-thirds for Victoria and one-third for Haliburton should mean local residents will pay approximately $3,500.

The group also decided to appoint representatives to form a small committee that will work directly with ministry officials. Two representatives will be sent from both counties and one from Lindsay.

Johnston said it was the desire of both councils to make sure the scope of the study would be large enough to include alternate uses such as freight haulage in case the tourist train was not economically viable on its own.

The two groups are hoping the ministry will take a lead role in formulating the terms of reference for the study as it is involved in tourism day-to-day, Johnston said.

If everything goes well, the terms of reference should be completed in two months and experts may be studying the proposal as early as late summer.

Johnston said the actual study should take about six months to complete once it gets underway.

"It represents an exciting potential but at the same time I don't think any municipality is going to jump in without taking a very close look at it," Johnston said.

He explained that if the municipalities took over the rail line maintenance and fencing would have to be looked after. He noted the taxpayers should not have to carry the burden of this project on their shoulders.

"We owe it to our taxpayers to take a close look." In the meantime, Johnston will be inviting the rail task force for the Province of Ontario to examine the Haliburton rail closure situation.

Provincial treasurer Frank Miller appears ready to go to bat on behalf of Haliburton County to have the area considered for federal department of regional economic expansion (DREE) grants.

Members of Haliburton county council's budget committee met with Miller at Queen's Park Monday to press for the designation, and were pleased with the outcome.

Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Sinc Nesbitt said in an interview Tuesday that Miller "admitted in the end that perhaps Haliburton had more need than anyone."

Nesbitt said the budget committee is "trying to set up a meeting with the minister from the federal government" who will be visiting Miller "very shortly."

"We're trying to meet with the minister and Miller at the same time," Nesbitt said.

Prospects for that meeting "looked really good," as of Monday, Nesbitt said. "It's a case of if no one backs away at the bitter end, we're batting at least 50 percent." But, he added, "We're certainly batting 100 percent with Miller."

DREE designations are examined every five years, but "each year the provincial government can make new concessions if the federal government agrees," Nesbitt said.

If the county is successful in its bid to become eligible for DREE, "there would be no change in the grant from the federal government to the provincial government" according to Nesbitt. "It would just be a redistribution to include us."

Although the Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve stressed that the DREE issue is complex, and that no quick moves are likely, he remained hopeful following the talks at Queen's Park.

"We just feel that we're in the ballpark," he said. "It was a really good meeting."

Also to help out if need be, an auxiliary unit consisting of five men was being given a review of fire procedures. These men have been trained and are experienced in fire fighting but are not on full-time fire duty, Allore said.

"It's an extreme condition."

Usually the fire units are just preparing to go north at this time of year but one unit has already been there for three weeks, he said.

This is longer than the fire crews ordinarily stay out and Allore said the ministry has rest and recuperation stations set up to allow the men to have some time off if they've been in the fires for a long time.

"They don't like to keep them up there too long," Allore said.

He said the office was not sure where all the crews were on Monday but that one was in Ignace. He explained the men were shipped out to the regional fire centre in Dryden and then were assigned to the fires from there.

Minden MNR sends 21 employees to fight Northern Ont. forest fires

As the forest fires in north-western Ontario continue to rage, the Minden district is getting ready to send more men and equipment to help fight the blazes.

On Monday Hugh Allore said two additional pumping units had been sent out and nine chainsaws were ready to go if word was sent.

Also to help out if need be, an auxiliary unit consisting of five men was being given a review of fire procedures. These men have been trained and are experienced in fire fighting but are not on full-time fire duty, Allore said.

"It's an extreme condition."

Allore said more men have been sent to the fires this year than usual.

As of Monday three full-unit crews, five men each, had been sent up north along with six overhead staff while another eight overhead staff are on stand-by. Allore explained that the units would be involved in suppression of the fires while the overhead staff will be acting mainly as support staff.

"The fire season is about a month ahead up there and we expect it to carry on for some time," he said.

dered limestone into streams. The program "works" Brydges said, "but it's a real desperation thing. It's a sad thing to see." And despite the liming effort, there are still times when the spring Ph drop "gets ahead of them."

Brydges emphasized that a liming program, even as a desperation move, "is not something you start on lightly. The scientific implications of liming are not fully understood," he said.

There may be social implications as well, Brydges said. He asked council to consider what might happen if a liming program was used to bring back fish populations in two or three selected lakes, and fishermen flocked to those lakes in large numbers. Problems of over use and of cottager complaints could be severe, he suggested.

As for the cost of a liming program, Brydges cited a small scale program in New York state which cost "$10 to $30 per acre (of water) per year," depending on access and the amount of treatment required. That cost was for the material only, with no labour or transportation component included. If access is difficult and aircraft must be used to apply the material, costs soar to between $50 and $150 per acre per year, Brydges said.

The Swedish experience has shown that where a significant fishery is threatened, liming "is worth doing on a cost benefit basis," Brydges said.

But scientists remain split on its implication, and on the potential damage artificially altering the Ph may do to fresh water organisms other than fish which may be able to adapt to acid stress.

A liming program does not restore a lake, Brydges said, but rather produces a different lake. "You still have spring acid stress, you still have the metal precipitate problem."

He said liming is analogous to taking aspirin for a headache that has an organic cause. "You get rid of the symptoms but not the cause."

International legislation designed to reduce the pollution that gives rise to acidic precipitation is "the critical thing" according to Brydges. "You have to agree to solve the problem before you get anything done."

If abatement does not come soon enough to keep area lakes from becoming seriously acidified in future years, a liming program will probably be started in this area, Brydges said. And he assured county council that co-operation of local municipalities would be needed if such a program is ever carried out. "We don't want these lakes to die," he said.

Agencies, OPP to discuss disaster plan

The possibility that a major disaster could strike Haliburton County has prompted Minden OPP to consider formulating a coordinated plan with the heads of numerous county agencies.

At a meeting last Wednesday attended by more than 100 invited municipal councillors, firemen, ambulance attendants, doctors, nurses, MTC, MNR and Health Unit representatives, detachment commander Sergeant Bill Bailey used the example of an airliner crash to graphically illustrate the complex problems that arise when disaster strikes.

Bailey said the lessons learned in the aftermath of the crash of an Air Canada stretch DC-8 on July 5, 1970 near Toronto mean the OPP are now "much better prepared" for disasters.

Since the crash, which killed all 109 people on board, disaster kits have been put together which can be dispatched anywhere in the province. Each detachment also has a vital services directory that lists every service available in the area, Bailey said, including the names of people who own heavy machinery that might be needed at the scene of a major disaster. Two office trailers are also able to be trucked to disaster sites.

At the conclusion of a question period that followed the presentation on the 1970 crash, Bailey said a further meeting will be held to discuss disaster plans with representatives of all county based agencies. There was no indication of when that meeting will take place.

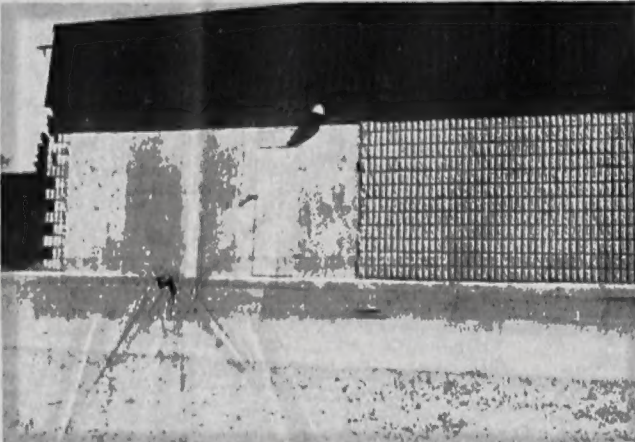

Car damages LCBO outlet in Wilberforce

Patrons of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario outlet in Wilberforce will be inconvenienced for at least the next few days until the building can be repaired. The store was extensively damaged late Sunday morning when a stationwagon smashed through the front windows, shattering some of the stock inside.

Police say Anne Diack, 65, of Unionville, was in front of the building checking on hours of operation when her foot slipped onto the accelerator and the car slammed through the glass front.

Damage to the store and contents was estimated at $17,000.

County council sets policy on 66' allowance closures

Haliburton County council has set a policy on the sale of 66 foot shoreline road allowances.

At a special closed session last Wednesday afternoon, council hammered out a policy that differs only slightly from one proposed by Dysart et al council at a meeting earlier this month.

First point in the five-part policy states that original shoreline allowances "be deemed to the abutting owners at the municipality's discretion by by-law, said by-law to be confirmed by the county, provided the allowance be perpendicular to the lot lines and not an extension of the lot lines."

Second point is that the closed portion must not be part of an original road allowance "that blocks suitable and sufficient access to a lake or an adjoining property owner's access."

Third section of the policy sets a uniform fee structure throughout the county "unless there are tradeoffs or different circumstances, in which cases the reason is to be explained to the county and if deemed reasonable, the by-law is to be confirmed."

The suggested fee structure "payable to the municipality is $250 for each individual lot up to 150 feet of frontage and $1 per foot for each foot closed beyond the 150 feet for each owner." As well, the abutting landowner must pay all legal, survey and administration costs.

Fourth part of the policy states that revenues from the sales are not to be used for anything other than road right-of-ways that must be purchased. As well, "the interest accruing from any revenue can be used for road or park purposes at the liberty and during the term and at the discretion of council."

Fifth point in the policy is that where the municipality does not have title to the existing public roads at the rear of the lot requesting closure and sale, "a quit claim deed for 33 feet from the centre line will be required from the owners of the lot in question," before the closure.

Despite the county policy, no closures or sales of shoreline road allowances will take place until the Ministry of Housing, which must approve such closures, has indicated that it is willing to do so.

People who let their dogs run at night because they think the local by-law enforcement officer is not on the job could be in for a surprise. Bob English, by-law enforcement officer for Dysart et al, said the municipality has received a large number of complaints about dogs running at night, and that as a

He was taken to Huntsville Hospital for treatment.

Hall was charged with careless driving. Damage to his vehicle was estimated at $1500.

A small world: A favourite since the Middle Ages, miniatures are popular with people who've found there's pleasure in thinking small

by Sue Cooper

It's a small world. And to people like Shirley Cummings it's even smaller than usual. Her world is about one-twelfth the size of most of our surroundings but it is just as beautiful, if not more so.

Cummings collects miniatures. She also sells them to enthusiasts in her store, the Bush Boutique, on the shores of Haliburton Lake.

Although miniatures are now popular with many collectors, they have been a favourite since the middle ages. In those ancient times members of the royal families collected miniatures and since then the tiny replicas have been enjoyed by many.

Even though miniatures can be housed in many different ways, the doll house still seems to be a favourite. Cummings received her first doll house during the depression years when she was very little.

"It was an act of love," she recalls. The cherished Christmas present was made from scrap wood that her father could find.

The old house, although it has a new paint job and its roof has been rebuilt and shingled with miniature asphalt shingles, still sits in the boutique. She still has most of the original furnishings too, but after years of being played with by children, including her and a younger sister, the miniatures are well worn.

Cummings' fascination with miniatures began as a result of receiving the doll house and in the pre-World War Two years, miniatures were as popular as they are today.

At one time a department store had "Titania's Palace", which was built by Major Sir Neville Wilkinson for his daughter, on display. Cummings said it was one of the most extravagant doll houses made as Wilkinson spared no expense to have it constructed.

Another famous doll house, and one of the most beautiful miniature houses ever made, was Queen Mary's doll house. It was made by craftsmen in Britain creating their specialty whether it was woodworking, painting or furniture making, in miniature. The doll house was a gift to the beloved queen.

But the beginner need not go to such extravagance to enjoy collecting miniatures. Cummings suggests that the new collector start off with a room first, before launching the big project of furnishing a house.

Cummings is always looking for inexpensive and sturdy miniatures that children might be interested in but she also carries miniature hand-blown glassware, hand-crafted figurines and pewter ware for discriminating collectors.

The accepted scale for miniatures is one inch to the foot with everything, including wallpaper and paint, being available in this ratio. Cummings said the paint must be high quality or must be mixed properly so it will not look heavy on the walls as off-the-counter latex would.

"I don't think there's anything in normal size that you can't find in miniature," she said.

In her miniature department store, which takes up a small space on one of the boutique's walls, Cummings has miniature spoon collections, decks of cards, stained glass, linens, fabric, rugs, blue agate cooking ware, decorative lighting which can be hooked up to electricity, real asphalt shingles, brass door knobs and even a miniature mouse for the kitchen floor.

Shirley Cummings arranges furniture in a doll house

Exacting detail makes miniatures lifelike

The rooms that Cummings has on display are obviously created with loving care. They are made to look like someone actually lives in the room with the knitting left sitting on the chair and the laundry hanging half out of the clothes basket.

To furnish the rooms, Cummings makes most of the furniture from wood kits which supply the materials but the wood must be sanded and stained and certain pieces must be upholstered. Presently, she is working on a grand piano that will make up part of her music room.

"You can have something in miniature that you couldn't afford in full size," she said. Many experienced furniture makers design pieces that are breath-taking.

Cummings said miniature collectors fit into three groups: those who collect antique miniatures and do not necessarily care about the exact scale but rather the historical background; those who collect only miniatures made on the accepted scale and those who enjoy creating their own miniatures.

'Everybody thinks of it as child's play'

In the early 1970's after letting her hobby drop for a few years, Cummings renewed her interest in miniatures. Around the same time the National Association of Miniature Enthusiasts (NAME) formed in the United States.

NAME brought a lot of miniature collectors out of the closet, Cummings said. Collectors now admitted they were interested in miniatures as they realized other people were too.

"Everybody thinks of it as child's play," she said.

Surprisingly, to some, Cummings said that many men are involved in miniatures and suggested they become interested through model trains.

Miniature collecting, which she thought might be the third most popular hobby in Canada, is definitely a family hobby. It offers children "a creative outlet", while parents can try their hand at using some of the skills they have to make miniatures. Woodworking, weaving, pottery and rug hooking will help add valuable accessories to rooms or houses.

But rooms and houses are not the only platforms used to display prized miniatures. Some collectors display their articles on little shelves while others make a vignette. This is a shallow shadow box that can be hung on the wall like a picture but it also allows the collector to be creative with the miniatures.

"There are so many personal things," Cummings said.

Since miniature collectors have come out of the woodwork with the forming of NAME, little clubs have sprung up and the enthusiasts now have their own magazine and gather once a year for a convention in the states. As miniature collectors continue to get together exchanging views on their hobby, their small world will get bigger and bigger.

At a meeting of county council last Wednesday the following matters were dealt with:

Finance chairman reported on review of accounts by the Finance Committee.

Accounts were approved in the amount of $115,230.82.

County Road Chairman M. Fearrey referred members of council to recent minutes of the road committee, and County Engineer Bill Obee commented and also explained circumstances of the four by-laws being presented.

By-law 1096, a by-law adopting a plan of county road improvement and establishing a county road system in the Provisional County of Haliburton, was passed, as were By-law 1098, a by-law for the purpose of authorizing expropriation of property for road widening purposes on County Road 7, By-law 1099, a by-law restricting the weight of vehicles passing over Hawk Creek Bridge, and By-law 1100, a by-law restricting the weight of vehicles passing over Ingoldsby Bridge.

Chairman Robert Vick presented the Hyland Crest Committee of Management report, and Board Member N.R. Gambell commented on the recent report from the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Children's Aid representative M. Amm reported on the Kawartha Haliburton Children's Aid Society, and members of council supported Mr. Amm if additional responsibilities should be undertaken.

Representative Fred Baum reported that the Chamber of Commerce meeting is scheduled for next week, but he directed attention to the meeting this evening sponsored by O.P.P. related to meeting disasters, and Mr. Baum further commended the O.P.P. on their diligence and efficiency in capturing the fugitive in the Sherborne area.

Representative Major G. Lewis outlined the developments of the Children's Services Committee to date resulting in successful completion of the first phase of a model for Children's Services, now awaiting ministerial approval and further financial support.

Representative M. Fearrey reported that the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission is active in its pursuits, and has scheduled a meeting for this evening.

With reference to County By-law No. 1043 confirming closing of part of road allowance between Lots 25 and 26, Concession 10, Township of Cardiff, council acknowledged and accepted authorization dated January 31, 1980 whereby various adjoining landowners assign interest in the closed road to one adjoining landowner, Mrs. Mildred Peel, such authorization having been accepted by resolution of the Township of Cardiff on May 8, 1980.

The week of June 15 to 21 was declared as Senior Citizens' Week in Haliburton County.

Dr. Tom Brydges, Supervisor, Limnology and Toxicity Section, Ministry of the Environment, showed slides and gave details of liming projects both in Sweden and Canada, and associated implications. Dr. Brydges answered questions and explained the delay in liming generally to date because data so far does not indicate test lakes changing in any rapid way. Dr. Brydges was accompanied by Mr. Ron Reid who heads the field programme in Dorset.

Mr. Michael Collins, M.A., A.C.I.C., who had also been invited to attend county council, commented on the liming aspect.

The clerk was requested to read the resolution passed by county council in December urging provincial and federal governments to take immediate steps toward prevention of acid precipitation, rectifying the current situation and signing an International Agreement.

The clerk was requested to follow up this resolution again and obtain current reports on any action taken.

A letter will be written from Haliburton County to Mr. Claude Ryan and Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau congratulating them and all federalist forces on the referendum vote and urging the Prime Minister and all governments to work quickly toward a new constitution.

County council reassembled in private session at 1:30 p.m. to establish a draft policy on the 66-foot road allowance abutting navigable waters.

Under the direction of Reeve Murray Fearrey, each portion of the Dysart resolution

Putting across the message

Haliburton County council may not have been completely in agreement with a Ministry of the Environment official who told them last week that a liming program would be premature, but at least they have been presented with the facts. It now remains to be seen whether or not the message Dr. Tom Brydges gave to council has quieted the urge of some members to push for immediate action on a matter they have not always appeared to understand.

The scientist's visit came in the wake of a resolution passed at the March meeting of council in which the majority of county council indicated they were prepared to finance and administer a liming program for some county lakes. The resolution had asked the Ministry of the Environment for guidance about which lakes could benefit from the program.

It has been clear for some time that many county politicians have found the acid rain problem a difficult one with which to grapple, even when they had access to scientific evidence indicating the problem is not yet severe in this area. Dr. Brydges' clear and simple explanation of the benefits and pitfalls of a liming program ought to have cleared the air once and for all.

Ministry scientists have been gathering data on acid levels in area lakes for the last five years. That data indicates that while many water bodies in Haliburton County are susceptible to long term damage from acidic precipitation, none have yet reached a critical level. Thus there is no need for rash action or hysterical fears that local lakes are "dying".

The only real solution to the acid rain problem will come when the governments of Canada and the United States can agree on pollution abatement standards to substantially reduce sulphur dioxide and nitrogen oxide emissions from industry. Abatement will cost a great deal of money, and it may cost jobs, as industry always suggests. In the short term, those costs may seem excessive. In the long term however, and in a different frame of reference, they may eventually seem small indeed.

The fact that local councillors have shown an interest in the acid rain problem is on the whole a positive factor. Pressure must be brought to bear on governments to create and enforce the necessary abatement legislation, and on industry to accept responsibility for the damage it has done to the environment. Local councils are a vehicle through which the feelings of the people can be made known to provincial and federal governments.

But local councils step outside the boundaries of their responsibilities when they speak out before they have understood, and when they state they are ready to undertake a program as complex and potentially damaging as 'liming'.

The message came across loudly and clearly at Last Wednesday's meeting: a decision on when and where liming is appropriate must rest with trained scientists acting as advisors to governments.

Ratepayers will be watching with interest to see if that message has been understood.

A ray of hope for a fighting chance

For the first time in recent years, a glimmer of light has appeared in the far-off horizon of Haliburton County's hopes for a stronger economy. At a meeting Monday, provincial treasurer Frank Miller told county budget committee chairman Murray Fearrey and member Sinc Nesbitt that he agrees the county needs DREE assistance.

It is a small breakthrough indeed, but it does hint at a brighter future. Now that the need has been recognized at the provincial level, the push must begin to drive the message home at the federal level.

A DREE designation is seen by all county politicians as the only means through which the area will be able to attract light industry. The designation will provide incentives in the form of low interest loans and grants to industries looking to relocate or expand. The lure of DREE aid would be a strong one for industries that could benefit from the availability of raw resources such as wood.

Even if DREE aid does become available in the county, the road ahead will still be a rocky one. Transportation to markets is poor, and the county has almost none of the skilled labour an industry might require.

Still, the fact that the provincial treasurer seems willing to work on behalf of the county is a step in the right direction. A DREE designation would not change the fact that many other areas of the province are more attractive to industry than Haliburton County. But it would provide some ammunition with which to fight for an improved economy. The battle may be long and hard. But at least it seems poised to begin.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

Quebec continues to demand equality with the rest of Canada... Just how "equal" can they get? Our Prime Minister and most of the Liberal M.P.'s are from Quebec.

Trudeau is again our Prime Minister because of Quebec's overwhelming support - and the "Tribal French vote" outside of Quebec.

I would say that about 75 percent of Non-Quebeckers are governed by the 25 percent of Quebeckers. There is no need to continue the "Battle of the Plains of Abraham". The French Canadians have given the rest of Canada a resounding defeat!

No need for Trudeau and his party to ever lose their jobs. All he has to do is to tie up some loose ends - like official bilingualism throughout Canada.

Sincerely,
Claudia Say,

To the Editor:

It has recently come to my attention through an accidental discovery by a seasonal resident, that Couchiching Developers want to over-develop a quiet, wildlife inhabited bay on Soyers Lake. It is disgusting that this type of thing can be condoned adding to the already long list of polluted lakes and robbing the wildlife of their nesting spots.

Now is the time to stop further destruction before all beauty is destroyed by us. Hasn't the over-populated and mess in the Muskoka area shown us anything? I don't want that to happen here.

I find it very strange that it seems to be only the summer people who care what happens to the lakes. Don't permanent people care that they have to live with year-round destruction of the lakes? A lot of them live on lake frontage and they are the ones who lose more than seasonal residents. It's their livelihood that will suffer when there is too

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

by Len Pizzev

"Si je vous comprends..." he shouted over the din of thousands of "Oui" supporters. "Si je vous comprends... vous êtes entrainés de dire 'à la prochaine fois'..."

It had been a momentous night. Despite the weeks of bitter campaigning, despite the appeal of the issue for young Quebecers, and despite the predictions of the pollsters, René Levesque's ideal of a sovereign Quebec had suffered a significant setback. Yet the fiery premier's reference to the "prochain fois", the next time, left little doubt that the victory of the "Non" forces may yet prove to have been a Pyrrhic one. For unless Canadians begin to show that they are willing to alter the "status quo", and to recognize the legitimate aspirations of a major culture within the framework of a united Canada, that "prochain fois" may not be far away.

The federalists forces won the referendum, but the fact remains that 40 percent of all Quebecers, (and nearly 50 percent of all Francophone Quebecers) want their province to be a sovereign state.

The idea has a deeprooted emotional appeal, especially among the young. As long as six years ago, when I spent two consecutive summers living in the exclusively French speaking village of Trois Pistoles in the Gaspé, the young Quebecers with whom I lived and studied were committed to independence. It was not so much that they disliked Canada, or even English speaking Canadians. It was simply that they believed their culture would be stronger and their opportunities greater if Quebec could stand alone.

The geographical fact of Canada means many Canadians will never have the opportunity to experience the culture of the Quebecers. But those who, like me, have lived however briefly among that culture, will know that to have experienced it is to have been enriched. Canadians are fortunate that the country has two major languages and two major cultures. That duality of experience and outlook need not create divisions. On the contrary, it should instill in all of us a pride in the diversity and the complexity that is Canada.

Yet the voices of division persist. You hear them everytime someone says French is being "rammed down their throat". Those who believe the French they see on one side of their cornflakes box constitutes a threat to their existence should ask themselves if their attitude is any less divisive than that of the Parti Quebecois. In fact, it is precisely because the rest of the country has made little or no effort to accept and understand the French fact in Canada that young Quebecers have rallied around the cause of the PQ.

The referendum vote has given us a second chance. It has not killed the independence movement or quelled the anger and frustration of those Quebecers who believe they are second class citizens in an Anglophone dominated country. But it has given English Canada a chance to prove that it can open its mind and heart to the French fact within a united country.

History seldom allows second chances. We have been given a rare opportunity to mend our ways. Let us hope we are wise enough and brave enough to do so.

The biggest question we seem to be confronted with these days is the following. "Why isn't there a restaurant open in Haliburton after 7:00 p.m. in the evening?" I wish I had the answer but I don't have it at the present time. Some people seem to be of the opinion that the reason they don't open up in the evening is that they are making so much money during the daytime that they don't need any more. If this is true it's a great business to be connected with. What we are saying is that at least one of them should be open in the evenings not just during the two summer months but all year round. I can personally remember a few years ago the restaurant at the far end of town operated by Hugh Burke and Kosy Korner owned and operated at that time by Ray Archer were open at nights every night of the year until midnight most evenings and later on Saturday nights. Don't tell me there is not enough business because there was plenty in those days and there is lots of it now. It's there for the first one that opens up in the evening. If you are hungry in the evenings you can always drive down to Minden where the Dixie Lee and The Brown Owl are open for business every night of the week, twelve months of the year. We don't want to hear any of the present restaurant owners griping about new eating places opening up in Haliburton when they themselves do not want to stay open in the evenings.

Carnarvon Building Supplies have announced that they are opening a division to their business to be known as Home "N" Hearth. Located just north of the Vankoughnet Road on Highway 35 the new business will have its opening this Wednesday, May 28, 1980. All items will be reduced in price during their grand opening sale May 28 - June 7. Free draws and demonstrations will take place on Saturday.

I would like to add my congratulations to Maxine Curry, Madeline Austin and Peggy Neville, all of Haliburton, three members of the Haliburton chapter of the Canadian Cancer Society who received certificates of service recently for their help to the local charity over the past 25 years. A job well done ladies.

The Highlands Little Theatre will be presenting "The Creature Creeps" this coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 29, 30 and 31 at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium with curtain time at 8:00 p.m. It's great family entertainment that you won't want to miss.

Some people are of the opinion that all the members of the Rotary Club do is sit around, eat and have a sing song. Nothing could be further from the truth. All one has to do is to look around Minden, Haliburton and surrounding areas to see all the wonderful work both the Minden and Haliburton clubs have accomplished. For the benefit of all I would like to fill you in on the object of Rotary. The object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and in particular, to encourage and foster: First - the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service; Second - high ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society; Third - the application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian of his personal, business and community life; Fourth - the advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

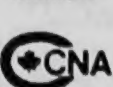

We are just getting around on it now but at this time we would like to offer our congratulations to Elstone Motor Sales Limited who on Saturday, May 17, 1980 celebrated their 25th anniversary. In 1955 Mr. Clifford Elstone purchased the business formerly operated under the name of Chambers Motors and as well as handling Sunoco products was the local distributor of Dodge and Desoto cars and Dodge trucks. Many changes have been made up through the years at this popular Haliburton garage and one change was when Mervyn Elstone joined his father to form a partnership in the business. A few years later when Cliff decided to retire, Mervyn took over the full ownership of the business. Just about a year ago the garage received a real face-lifting on the front of the building and it made a tremendous difference. We join with their many customers and friends in wishing Elstone Motor Sales Limited many more years of successful business in Haliburton.

It would seem that the people of Haliburton love to see a little excitement once in awhile. Last Wednesday morning there seemed to be a lot of lookers on the main street when one of Lamco Construction tractors got stuck and tipped over a little and couldn't move away from a telephone pole in front of Cauldron Pharmacy until a piece of their heavy machinery was brought on the scene to solve the problem. By the way, Lamco Construction who have the contract for the big job on Haliburton streets, are to be congratulated on the smooth, efficient job they are doing. Everyone from council down to the businessman, the average citizen and what have you are more than pleased with the way this project is being handled.

The Village of Haliburton was stunned this week when the citizens learned of the passing of Alice Robertson who died suddenly as the result of an accident at Rochester, New York on Monday, May 26, 1980. Alice Murray Robertson who was in her 77th year was the beloved wife of the late Mervyn Robertson, dear mother of Lyn of Toronto and Keith of Haliburton and dear sister of Muriel, Louise, Alex, and predeceased by Margaret. The late Mrs. Robertson is resting at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home (Welch Chapel), Minden from 7:00 p.m. Wednesday until 12:00 noon, Thursday, May 29, thence to the Haliburton United Church for complete funeral service and committal at 2:00 p.m. Interment at the Ingoldsby Cemetery.

Hydro Rates

It has been announced that Ontario Hydro wants to charge the province's 323 municipal utilities about 9.3 percent more next year for the electricity they purchase. The proposed rate increase would by itself raise the typical residential hydro bill about 6.5 percent, since bulk power purchases are about 70 percent of the total costs of the average local utility. These rate proposals are, apparently, based on a Hydro budget of $2.617 billion - up 9.4 percent from 1980 revenue requirements.

Changes to Nursing Home Act announced by Minister

Changes to the Nursing Home Act regulations that will improve the care and safety of residents in Ontario nursing homes were announced recently by Health Minister Dennis Timbrell.

The new regulations follow a review of the regulations by the Ministry of Health in conjunction with the Ontario Nursing Home Association, the College of Nurses of Ontario, the Ontario Medical Association and the Ontario Advisory Council on Senior Citizens, the College of Pharmacy, and the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario.

"The changes will give residents an opportunity to be involved in decisions that affect their lifestyle and will provide them with a safer and generally more pleasant environment," Timbrell said.

Nursing home administrators are now required to ensure that residents have a say in what they eat or how their time is spent, for example. Screening devices must be placed to ensure privacy of residents. Residents must have access to certain physical aids such as handrails and lowered control devices in elevators for residents confined to wheelchairs.

The changes also require that nursing homes acquire flame retardant mattresses, more fire detectors and additional fire protection devices. Improved patient call systems and door alarm systems must also be installed.

Qualifications of the administrative staff and food service personnel will be upgraded. Administrators are now required to complete a course on long-term care organization and management offered by the Canadian Hospital Association. The amendments also make it mandatory that by 1984 all homes employ a person responsible for food services who is eligible for membership in a related professional association.

High Interest Rates and Farmers

The Ontario government has announced a $25 million program to help farmers with current high interest rates. For about 20,000 farmers producing food, Ontario will subsidize interest rates above 12 percent on short-term capital working loans up to a maximum of 3 percentage points. The subsidy is to be paid on loans of up to $50,000 and will last for nine months from April 1 to December 31, 1980. There has been a mixed reaction to the program.

Inco sulphur emissions

Sulphur emissions from Sudbury's Inco Ltd. have had a much worse impact on the province's cottage country than the Ontario government will admit, according to Liberal Leader Stuart Smith. Quoting from a speech by the federal Environment Minister, he said that in Muskoka "approximately 40 percent of the sulphur deposition originates from this source (Inco)." He said the provincial control order against Inco was "pathetic", amounting to "business as usual for Inco for the next two years and then a reduction of a mere 20 percent after that. Inco calls the tunes and the government dances."

Aid to Senior Citizens

Pensioners who pay no taxes and are "already supported by the state" don't need the money they'll lose under Ontario's new aid for the elderly plan, according to the Provincial Treasurer. He made this statement in response to Opposition questions on reports that 45,000 pensioners in homes for the aged, nursing homes and charitable institutions could lose up to $17 million in tax rebates. He said many of these people don't even spend the $51 comfort allowance given to them "so we directed the money to people who had obligations in society and did not have enough money to meet those obligations."

From the Chamber

Economic Development

If you missed this column over the last two weeks we apologize but we were away at a special course at Waterloo University designed to assist those involved in Industrial Development projects. In our case the cost was gratefully subsidized by a scholarship grant from the Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

Industrial Development officers from almost every province in Canada were in attendance and it was most enlightening to delve into each other's problems and possible solutions. One thing became very apparent. Areas with certainly no worse development factors than ours were getting very substantial federal assistance through DREE funding. Sherbrooke, Quebec for instance had their industrial park completely serviced with sewers and water supplies by DREE and were now selling this serviced industrial land at the unbelievably low price of $10,000 per acre. Without such assistance it becomes almost impossible to compete with areas that have when all other things are equal. Our county representatives are presenting their case in Ottawa this week and we sincerely hope they are successful in their persuasions.

We've Been Hiring People

The Chamber has been busy interviewing candidates for a number of positions this summer. We have, of course, been using the services of our Canada Manpower Outreach Centre, as we hope all of you are aware, to locate potential employees.

The information centres in both the Chamber office and the Haliburton "Caboose" qualify for a travel counsellor each under the Experience '80 program and with these students commencing their duties both centres can remain open a full seven days a week. The Ministry of Housing also provides us with two students under Experience '80 and they will be assisting Minden's Business Improvement Area committee with communication among the involved businesses. There are some other related surveys that they also will be working on to provide us with information on which to base future decisions.

The Haliburton County Economic Development Commission, which is administered by the Chamber are employing four students under the Summer Youth Employment Program to complete what is called a "Community Profile". This will involve putting together a very detailed inventory of all the economic factors in the entire county. Information on commercial or industrial property, the zoning, taxes, services available, prices, etc. will all be categorized along with other relevant factors in the community it is located. This will provide us with the basis for information requested by potential industrial clients, and put us in a much better position to handle inquiries.

In addition to all of these temporary positions we are pleased to announce that Elaine Blakey has now been given the position of office manager for our office-welcome centre, and she will be assisted by Mrs. Carol Dunham who is now joining our year-round staff. With this re-organization it is hoped we can better serve our membership and the community as a whole.

How Much Does "Manpower" Cost

Don Pollock, an executive from private enterprise, was appointed to head a Canada Manpower Commission to investigate whether or not we are getting our money's worth from the programs. He revealed that in Ontario $400 million annually is expended on these programs, with about an even split of federal and provincial contribution. We would certainly agree it is none too soon to look at Headlines are not reassuring these days, to say the least. By the time this appears in print, they may be terrifying. The American debacle over the hostages has ended, and who knows what violent and world-shaking stunt the CIA and the U.S. military will try next.

There is no more dangerous time for our society on earth than one in which the Americans are embroiled in foreign affairs and, at the same time, there is a presidential election in the offing. This has been proved, over and over again. The incumbent president, if he wants another term in office, and he nearly always does, is tempted, especially if it is going to be a close race, into perilous ventures from which he will emerge as a hero and waltz into office.

President Jimmy Carter showed, for a long period, admirable restraint as the lawless Iranians twisted the tiger's tail. But, as the election loomed, and the situation remained stagnant, he came under more and more pressure from the "hawks" among his advisers, and from the mood of his people, to "do something". He gave in, with the resulting fiasco in Iran. A completely botched rescue sortie. The hostages, target of the attempt, scattered. American soldiers killed in action for the first time in his regime.

At the White House, the moderate Secretary of State, Cyrus Vance, resigned because he was against the somewhat strident mission. And a new, harsh, hard-nosed voice for Carter, as No. 1 man on foreign policy, Zbigniew Brzezinski, who doesn't believe in the soft-shoe shuffle, but in hob-nailed boots. Another arrogant idiot like Henry Kissinger, the late, unlamented mouth for Richard Nixon. Lord help us all.

Behind all the pious expressions of grief for the dead men, and the lukewarm sympathy of America's international "friends" lie a lot of unanswered questions.

Why didn't Carter wait another three weeks, until the date many of his allies had agreed to apply heavy sanctions on Iran? You supply the answers.

How could a nation with the greatest technology in the world, a nation that put a man on the moon, so abysmally foul up a rescue operation similar to the one carried out successfully by tiny Israel at Entebbe?

Why did they leave their dead behind, to be ignominiously displayed before the world's television cameras by the savages masquerading as holy men, of Iran? Surely you take your dead with you.

Those are just a few of the questions the headlines force one to ask, unless one is a booby, and trusts the leaders of nations.

Let's leave the Yanks alone with their troubles, and have a look closer to home. More questions pop up.

If Canada really sympathizes with the American position on Iran and the hostages, as our leaders indicate, why don't we do something about it?

Whatever the Shah did, and his was obviously a corrupt and brutal reign, his successors are no better. They have hanged hundreds after kangaroo trials, persecuted racial and religious minorities and surrendered the principles of justice and mercy into the hands of a narrow, religiously fanatic old man.

Why doesn't Canada kick out all Iranians, stop trading with them, seize any assets they have in this country, refuse them entry visas, and keep it up until the hostages are released and a stable and civilized government is restored in Iran?

Why doesn't Canada, internationally known as a peace-maker, go back to that role, and work through the United Nations, the Commonwealth, and the other great powers, to bring Iran into line?

If we deplore Russia's invasion of Afghanistan, which we claim to do, why don't we do something besides deplore? Because we might lose some wheat sales; that's why.

We make a feeble gesture by talking our athletes into staying away from the Olympic Games, poor devils.

But we go right on planning to host Russian hockey teams in the "great" Canada Cup series.

Of course, that paradox is simply enough explained. Olympic athletes don't make money, they cost money. And they aren't very well organized and don't have much clout.

On the other hand, Russian hockey teams fill arenas, bring in big television revenues, and the N.H.L. is well organized and carries a lot of clout.

Maybe I sound like a hawk in this column. I'm not. I'm a school teacher. Perhaps because of that, I realize that, as there must be order in a classroom, there must be order, and a semblance of civilization, in the structure of nations.

There are times when I'm ashamed of my country. We are not without guts and imagination, as Ambassador Ken Taylor's high jinks in Iran proved.

But time and again it has been proved that Canada will never take strong measures, whatever the provocation, if it's going to cost us a few bucks in trade.

Can you identify your property

by P/C Wm Magee
Can you really identify your property as yours? If your television went missing and was placed on a table with four other sets of the same make and model you probably would not be able to pick out the set which was yours.

On way this can be done is by recording the make, model and serial numbers of all your property - lawnmowers, TV's, stereos, outboard motors, etc. In addition to this you could mark your property with various equipment using a code number such as your driver's licence, and then identifying your property becomes a very easy matter.

Electric engravers may be purchased or borrowed which will engrave your belongings, some insurance agents have the Brinks Marking System pens which allow you to mark much pollution of recreational spots and no one wants to vacation here anymore.

The wildlife, such as the loons, herons, osprey, beaver and fish, can't protect themselves against us. We must protect them. The quiet bay I see being destroyed by over-population of people, contains all this wildlife and a natural stream that will probably have to be changed in course or dammed up.

I don't mind a few more people buying lots, but too many in one spot, as the plan suggests, will be too destructive. Even with only a few people in the bay, the wildlife will have to find new nesting locations and they are getting fewer on this lake. I don't know the area number on the map of Soyers Lake, but I do know the property was once owned by Hislop.

Can you help protect the wildlife and natural stream, from the over-populated plan that is being submitted to the municipality for approval? Soyers Lake is still very natural and unpolluted. If one plan like this goes through, how do we stop future such plans and the ruin of our lake?

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. Carole M. Lidgold,

Some fine athletes showed their talent at the Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School last Monday.

Boys basketball team wins Mariposa trophy

The boys basketball team from Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School brought home the championship trophy from Mariposa on May 16.

The boys, competing against players from Archie Stouffer Public School in Minden and Mariposa Elementary School near Oakwood, came up with two wins and a loss.

They defeated Minden in championship match with an 18 - 6 score after being downed by the team in a 20 - 19 decision earlier in the day.

The champs also took a 20 - 8 win over the Mariposa team to earn their title.

Lyle Coghlan was one of the top players of the day for HHSES when he blocked countless shots and controlled most of the backboard rebounds at both ends. He even managed to scratch up 8 points for his team. High scorers for the day were Kelly Mitchell with 20 points and Barry Boice marked up 12 for the team.

The rest of the scoring came from Scott Mitchell with 10 points, Scott Rae, 6 and Bernie Upton, 2.

In the other half of the tournament, girls' teams from both Archie Stouffer and HHSES were competing with Mariposa.

Mariposa won the championship in a final game against Minden when they squeaked to victory 14 - 9. The HHSES girls had a poor day as they lost both of their matches, 16 - 10 to Mariposa and 22 - 4 to Minden.

Scoring for HHSES were Cindy McLean, Tracey Wilson, Kim Brown, Miriam Smith and Karen Medcalf.

Five HHSS athletes to go to regional finals

After a good showing at the COSSA meet last week, Haliburton Highlands Secondary School will have more athletes than ever, competing at the Eastern Regionals in Trenton this weekend.

The athletes from HHSS came up with three firsts and won the boys section of the central Ontario meet. The school totalled up 52 points to take third place among the 15 'A' schools.

In junior boys, Mike Hatkoski took first place in both the javelin and pole vault competitions. Signe Tashlin marked up another first for HHSS when she took top spot in the midjet girls long jump.

Also in junior boys, Butch Manary placed second in the discus event with Tim Davies placing third in the senior boys pole vault.

Margie Newton wound up the awards by placing fourth in the junior girls high jump.

The top five competitors in all events at Trenton will go to the All Ontario finals in Toronto the following week-end.

John Lawson of Minden, explains procedures to beginning scuba divers at the Haliburton County Dive Club's first dive. The newly formed club will be diving throughout the area this summer.

Softball is now in full swing

The Haliburton County ladies softball league is in full swing with games being played throughout the county last week.

To start the week off, the Minden Jrs. defeated Wilberforce 16 - 10. The same night West Guilford beat Snowdon in Irondale and Haliburton downed the Minden Srs. 10 - 7. Winning pitcher for Haliburton was Nancy Maughan while Wendy Gough took the loss. Carnarvon also came up with a 30 - 3 win over Snowdon Stompers. Cathy Darby took the win while Lorraine Martin was the losing pitcher.

The following night Minden Seniors, came up with a win over the Snowdon Stompers with a final score of 27 - 18. Andrea Burk pitched the winning game while Lorraine Martin took the loss.

Thursday night play was short as Wilberforce won over Gooderham. Scores were not available for that game at press time.

Moving into the second week of play, Haliburton beat the Minden Srs. in a close 15 - 14 victory. Nancy Maughan took the win while Andrea Burk was the losing pitcher. Kim Parish had an excellent night in field for Haliburton.

Haliburton area to form minor softball league

The new Haliburton Minor Softball league was formed at a meeting last Thursday. It is a mixed league for boys and girls ages 5 - 14 years.

Tykes (ages 5 - 6 years), will play T-ball only. They will be coached by Ruth Levis, Kim Parish and Wanda Scott.

Youngsters 7 - 14 will play and learn the basics of softball.

The first practice for all ages will take place this Wednesday, May 28 at 7 p.m. at Haliburton's Senior Elementary School. In case of rain, the practice will be held Thursday night.

Atoms will be coached by Ray Goulet and Al Brownson. Pee-wees will be coached by Bill Hartin and Nancy Brink. Bantams will be under the direction of Norm Greenfield and Walton Prime.

Executive of the new league consists of Bill Hartin, president; Roy Scott, vice president; Ray Goulet, sports director; Nancy Brink, public relations; and Walton Prime, secretary treasurer.

Parents are asked to bring their youngsters out to the practice this Wednesday night for an evening of fun, and players are asked to bring their gloves.

Larry Hartin was ready for action last Thursday night as men's softball got underway.

Hustlers win first 2 games

The Minden Hustlers have gotten off to a good start as they topped the scoreboard in their first two games of the season last week.

The Hustlers, playing in the men's tri-county fast ball league, downed Bobcaygeon 8 - 2 in Bobcaygeon last Wednesday night.

Last Sunday in Lindsay, they went on to defeat the juniors 6 - 1. Their next game will be tonight (Wednesday) at home in Minden against Fenelon Falls at 8 p.m.

All home games will be played on Wednesday evenings at the ball park in the fair grounds.

It's gardening time in Haliburton County

Spring clean-up should include tree trimming

As a traditional activity, spring cleaning has never gained the popularity of, for instance, welcoming the crocus or spending that first afternoon on the golf course. Nevertheless, it has remained a necessity that has moved beyond the simplicity of airing the feather beds and shoveling ashes from a multitude of hearths and stoves. Today's spring cleaning may include such outdoor tasks as removing tree limbs that may have been damaged by winter storms. Even shade trees that may have been properly pruned in the fall could require some surgery by springtime.

For making any cut more than two or three inches in diameter, a gas-powered chainsaw is recommended. Besides making the job faster and easier, a chainsaw will make a cleaner cut. Nobody likes messy surgical scars. A gas saw is ideal because of its power and portability, a characteristic that is important unless all your trees are within the range of an extension cord.

While removing damaged branches is easy, there is a definite procedure to follow, according to tree surgery experts.

For the most painless limb removal possible - for the tree and the operator - follow the steps shown in the diagram. The first cut will prevent bark from peeling away from the trunk when the limb falls. The second cut is made an inch or so farther out on the limb. The third cut leaves a smooth surface that will become part of the trunk.

It's important not to cut into the trunk, or shoulder wood. Nutrients that feed the tree are carried throughout its length, just under the bark.

Treating open cuts with tree wound dressing is optional, except in the cases of oaks or elms where open wounds may attract insects that carry disease or allow fungus invasion.

Special chainsaw operation rules apply to cutting limbs from a standing tree. These are outlined in owner's instruction manuals provided with saws.

Tree owners are advised not to make any cuts above shoulder height. Jobs higher in a tree or where a falling limb could damage property should be left to a tree care professional.

Using the right-size chainsaw is also a consideration. Homeowners wouldn't want to use a saw that is too large or cumbersome, for the same reason they wouldn't use their driver to pitch to a green: it's too hard to control.

Non-slip gloves, safety glasses and ear plugs are recommended, and a hard hat should be worn when any wood being cut extends above the operator's head.

Safety is the home wood-cutter's primary consideration. He may not have been able to prevent a storm from damaging his tree, but he can prevent the repair work from damaging him.

How to Remove a Broken Limb

1. UNDERCUT WILL PREVENT WEIGHT OF LIMB FROM PEELING TRUNK BARK WHEN IT FALLS.
2. TOP CUT IS MADE ABOUT AN INCH OUT FROM UNDERCUT.
3. CUT STUB AS CLOSE AS POSSIBLE TO TRUNK AND APPLY DRESSING.

Chain link fence good protection

If you're troubled with two or four-legged intruders who race through your yard tromping down tender young plants, breaking off flower stalks and spoiling shrubbery, then you need to install a chain link fence!

A chain link fence provides protection for flower beds and vegetable gardens and peace of mind for you. The neighbours' Fido, Spot or Sparky may be whimpering at the back gate and the children in the area may stop and press their faces against the wire mesh fencing, but they all animals and kids - will be on the outside looking in, not inside, wrecking the garden.

In addition to being a plant protector, a chain link fence provides a perfect backdrop for flowers, vines and shrubs. Nowadays this sturdy, dependable fencing comes in a variety of styles and colours that blend with any landscape. You can choose vinyl-coated green, black or brown chain link. And, of course, the traditional silver or galvanized chain link fence is still available. Redwood and vinyl privacy strips are another innovation that enhance the natural beauty of a chain link fence.

There are a variety of vining plants that work especially well with a chain link fence. Sweet peas, morning glories and climbing roses twining on a chain link fence provide a breath-taking splash of color. And, chain link takes on added beauty blooming with clematis blossoms, silver lace or trumpet vine in a sunny location. In a shady spot, euonymus, Virginia creeper or English ivy might be selected to shield the view from inside out or outside in. Other climbers that grow effectively against a chain link fence are honeysuckle and bittersweet.

Chain link and gardens are natural go-togethers, but so are chain link and patios, chain link and pools, etc. A chain link fence is one property improvement that will bring satisfaction not only this spring and coming summer but all year long, year after year.

Gardeners should prepare soil early

It's spring... time to get gardening! This season is a busy time for green thumbs, with so many tasks to be done:

- You'll be planting soon - now's the time to prepare your soil.
- Hardy vegetables such as peas, lettuce, beets, and spinach can be sown as soon as your ground is ready. (Test soil by squeezing a handful into a ball and then dropping. If the soil crumbles, it's ready.)

• Biennials and perennials should be planted in the early spring, before they've made much new growth. Before transplanting from cold frames, harden plants by leaving glass sash off frames for a while.

• If you've had problems with drainage, do something about it before you plant.

Water collecting around roots keeps plants from getting the necessary oxygen.

- Although it may still be too early to move tender annual seedlings outdoors, you can begin sowing hardy annuals such as poppies, alyssum, sweet peas and pinks earlier.
- If your grass is already three inches high, now's the time to start mowing!
- Be sure and clear the mulch from your flower beds and check on any damage to plants.
- Plant dormant, bare-root roses before they begin to leaf out... later on, you can set out container-grown roses.

- If you're already the proud possessor of rose bushes, remember that spring is the time to fertilize.
- If you're seeding a lawn this spring, use a fertilizer that contains a crabgrass preventer, and save yourself some weeding later on.
- Early spring is the time to divide and plant perennials, while plants are dormant or just beginning to grow.
- As those bulbs you planted in the fall begin to bloom, make a note of those that are particularly pleasing, for future reference.

Happy green thumbing this spring!

Ground covers conserve soil moisture prevent serious erosion

Ground covers create a living carpet to conserve soil moisture and prevent erosion. They can soften the edges of a hard landscape, provide a transition between large expanses of lawn and vertical elements, and supply a variety of textures.

These low-growing plants are characterized by underground stems or trailing habits. They can be vines, dwarf shrubs, evergreens or herbaceous perennials, and have a wide variety of forms, textures and colours.

Grass is one of the most extensively planted ground cover. It is also the cheapest to establish and maintain over large areas. However, there are many situations, such as heavy shade, banks, slopes, and areas that require hand trimming, where growing grass is difficult.

One of the main problems with ground covers is establishment. Ideally, plants should be relatively inexpensive to purchase, should fill in quickly, and suppress weeds. Not all recommended ground covers fill the above criteria - in fact, very few do.

To aid establishment, particularly in heavily shaded areas, it may be necessary to improve soil conditions by adding organic matter, such as compost, peat moss or well-rotted manure. Under trees with shallow roots, such as Norway Spruce and Norway Maple, limit any increases in soil level to about 5 to 7.5 cm. Additional soil will reduce oxygen at the root zone, and cause trees to decline.

Perennial and annual weeds should be suppressed to reduced competition for light, soil, water and nutrients. Add phosphorus to the soil before planting to encourage rooting. Use Bonemeal or 20 percent superphosphate at the rate of 1 kg per 10 m².

Transplant ground covers in early spring or fall and water well. Planting distances will vary with the vigor and ultimate spread of the selected ground cover. Tam junipers for instance, may be spaced at 1 m apart, whereas English Ivy may be planted 0.3 m apart.

Adequate water during drought conditions of June, July and August is the key to successful establishment. Bear in mind that summer rains are often less than 64 mm, and do not penetrate soil to the root system, particularly under trees with heavy leaf canopies. Thoroughly soak the planted area every ten days.

Remove weeds as they grow, until the ground cover

Recommended covers

Ground covers recommended for sunny locations include - Artemisia, 30.4 cm; Bearberry, 15 cm; Blue Fescue, 15 cm; Cinquefoil, 15 to 90 cm; Cotoneaster, 15 to 90 cm; Fleece Flower, 90 to 120 cm; Junipers, 30 to 120 cm; Lambs-Ears, 30 cm; Mock Strawberry, 15 cm; Moss Pink, 10 to 15 cm; Mother of Thyme, 7.5 to 15 cm; Snow-in-Summer, 15 cm; Stone Crop, 7.5 cm; and Strawberry 30 cm.

There are many varieties of ground covers suitable for shady areas. Some of these are - American Barrenwort, 30 cm; Coralberry, 90 to 180 cm; Bergenia, 30 cm; Bugle Weed, 15 cm; Dead nettle, 30 cm; English Ivy, 15 cm; Ferns, 30 to 180 cm; Lungwort, 30 cm; Goutweed, 30 cm; Japanese Spurge, 30 cm; Lily-of-the-Valley, 15 cm; Pachistima, 30 cm; Periwinkle (Myrtle), 15 cm; Plantain Lily, 60 to 90 cm; Sweet Woodruff, 15 cm; Violets, 7.5 cm; Wild Ginger, 15 cm; Wintercreeper, 30 to 60 cm; and Yew, 90 to 180 cm.

Hybridizing creates new fruit varieties

New varieties of fruits or ornamentals are created by crossing or hybridizing, not by budding or grafting as is commonly supposed.

To cross two plants, the pollen from the male parts of the flower of one variety is transferred to the female parts of a flower of another variety. The seeds resulting from the union are planted.

Only after the new plants have produced fruit or flowers is it possible to tell whether the crosses are improvements over the parents.

Luther Burbank made many thousands of crosses and planted seeds by the tens of thousands. Every plant that resulted was a "new variety", but most of them were no better than the parents and perhaps one in a thousand much superior.

The top quality plant was saved while the 999 other plants were destroyed. Thus, a new and improved variety was created.

Peat moss improves both clay and sand soils

When you open that bale of sphagnum peat moss this spring to condition the soil in your yard, you will be working with the oldest gardening product you have ever used in or around your home.

How old? Perhaps 10,000 years and maybe even older. It takes 300 years for one foot of sphagnum peat moss to develop, and since most of the Canadian bogs where it comes from are between 35 and 50 feet deep, the age of this garden elixir can be as old as 15,000 years. Yet, sphagnum peat still lasts longer in the soil than any other conditioner available today, because - despite its age - it is not as decomposed as peats from other types of vegetation.

Canadian sphagnum peat moss aerates clay soil so that air, water and nutrients can reach plant roots where they are needed. On the other hand, it binds sandy soil so that water and nutrients won't drain through too quickly. And, it even improves good garden loam by increasing its water retention.

The peculiar growth habit of the sphagnum moss plant and its unusual cellular structure make it behave differently than any other kind of vegetation. Sphagnum cells are thin-walled, which means their oversized cavities can hold large amounts of water. And, because the woody cells are almost indestructible, the tiny reservoirs don't collapse when the plant dries out. The cells are so strong that even after sphagnum partially decomposes into peat, the cell shape remains intact. As a result, sphagnum peat moss will retain 12 to 20 times its weight in water.

The way sphagnum moss grows is also unique. The plant is surface-active, which means the stems and leaves are capable of interacting chemically with the environment in order to garner food and nutrients. As the plant grows upward, the bottom dies and eventually forms peat. It is this combination of surface action and water retention ability that makes sphagnum peat moss stand alone among soil conditioners. Mixed with any kind of soil, it promotes 'cationic exchange', that mysterious process whereby roots draw nutrients from the soil.

CANADIAN SPHAGNUM MOSS

Clay soils can be frustrating

Gardeners can conquer fine soils

Coping with clay soils can be one of the most frustrating aspects of gardening. However, if handled properly, many plants can be grown successfully in this type of soil.

There are several districts in Ontario where the most common sight in the upper layer of the soil horizon is clay. In this type of soil, 30 percent, or more, of the soil particles are very small.

The usual kinds of particles in our mineral soils are sand, silt, clay, and a non-mineral component called organic matter.

Since clay particles are about 0.002 mm or smaller, any clay soil type will be regarded as fine-textured. Straight clay is the finest, and consequently the most difficult to manage.

When discussing the kinds of garden plants reasonable adapted to clay soils, I recall one farmer's comment when asked when would be the best time to plow a certain clay hayfield. "Well," he said, "judging by the rain we've had, and the fact that it's the middle of May, I'd say about 2:30 p.m. on the third consecutive day without rain."

Many homeowners who garden in clay will know what he meant. The fine soil particles break into large, brick-like clods, if the garden plot is dug or tilled when it is a little too wet or too dry.

However, clay soils have some real advantages. They hold moisture and fertility much better than sandy soils. But their finicky characteristics, when it comes to breaking down into good tilth, leads us to look for means to improve the permeability. This can be done by incorporating organic matter, sand, and sometimes ground limestone.

Successful gardeners, whose home grounds are clay, will save grass clippings, autumn leaves, and similar organic materials to use in a compost. This is forked or tilled into the soil. The resulting soil mix will be lighter, more open, more water-permeable, and better drained.

A frequent question from homeowners is: "what can I grow in this heavy clay soil?" The answer is, literally any plant climatically adapted to your area. Some kinds of plants do better on clay than others, but if some pains are taken to improve the tilth of the garden clay, it is surprising how effective these fine-textured soils can be for garden use.

As a very general guide, pears, European plums, raspberries, currants, and gooseberries are fruits that do very well on clay soils.

Vegetables, such as lettuce, cabbage, spinach and rhubarb can also be grown successfully.

Under careful management, potatoes do quite well, but may be somewhat misshapen if the soil is lumpy. This tight, and often lumpy soil characteristic makes clay a poor medium for growing root crops.

Today, most gardeners, want to include beets, carrots, parsnips, summer turnips and radishes in their production repertoire, so the amelioration of the clay is adding organic matter, and/or sand, becomes especially important for root vegetables.

Perennial plants, such as garden roses and other shrubs, vines and trees, can be surface-mulched each late fall or spring. Dig mulch lightly into the soil to provide an excellent foraging medium for the feeding roots. Leaves, grass clippings, old hay, straw, or composted garden and organic kitchen refuse are suitable for mulch.

Mulching gives a friable, well-drained, and well-aerated top layer that will help prevent drought cracking, and reduce fluctuation in the soil temperature.

Plants need nitrogen

Plants need nitrogen: those with insufficient amounts are stunted in growth and have restricted root systems. Leaves will turn yellow and tend to drop off if there is insufficient nitrogen.

Nitrogen also increases the resistance of plants to disease.

Plants need potassium for carbohydrate production and translocation. Symptoms of potassium deficiency are stunted growth, as are poorly developed roots and tubers.

Don't overdo plant care

If you want your plants to prosper, don't make the most common mistake overzealous gardeners do - killing their plants with kindness.

Constant watering, fertilizer added unnecessarily and washing leaves of the wrong plant are some of the common errors that result in plant failures.

It's best to check with your nursery before beginning any plant care.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Monday morning we are further indebted to Madge Thompson for bringing us and helping to plant four nice root clusters of Bergamot, a plant few people have heard about, that is not listed in Webster's dictionary but twice in the Oxford; 1. a sort of orange tree, 2. a kind of pear. It is native to Ontario, has scented foliage and its bloom especially attracts humming birds and of course, is a perennial. Further, Madge also brought two species of phlox, a white and a mauve and all these are nicely planted in permanent locations.

Then as Ray Jenkins left his mother here as a day-care resident he asked us if we had any calla. Our answer being in the negative he promised to bring four giant Tuesday morning, two to be planted (or the four) in the big bed, or one each opposite two windows facing our longest wall bed. We will look forward to the display wherever they are growing. This generosity by this community is pretty much of a one-way display realizing how little that is free we give in return. Thank you anyway.

We acknowledge still another donation for Wednesday's bazaar from Mrs. Dorothy Iles, a previous helper at our bazaar, and having broken an ankle in the winter is unable to do that now but sent children's mittens and socks to be offered for sale. Thank you Dorothy, you have done much.

June Devolin, assisted by Pat Fearrey conducted our study of the Bible, Ch. 1, 2, 3 in parts of the book of Samuel I of Samuel's conception by God's promise and his later elevation to be God's prophet. This is another Biblical story that June promised to study with us.

Then the ladies settled down to make oatmeal cookies and peanut butter cookies to be offered for sale at the bazaar - Flossie Burk, Hazel Parish, Finny Jenkins, Lila Simmons and Florence Stagg.

As good as his word Ray Jenkins brought five giant calla roots which were planted, some in the big bed the others in the long wall bed, where they should put on a good display this summer.

We have started to put our frost hardy plants out in their beds.

Wednesday was our bazaar with plenty of offerings - picture plaques, pickle racks and mug racks, assorted baking, cookies, buns, bread of various kinds, pillows, mitts and socks, small quilts, stuffed dolls, and many more. The Happy Gang should be better off for awhile.

We are glad that the Quebec problem is settled at least for the time being. Their fleur-de-lis is interesting; the symbol of pre-revolutionary France. At least the Quebecois are not Bonapartists. Another curious thing: when we looked for Quebec in the Webster dictionary, it was not there.

Most of our lawn furniture has had two coats of super-solignum and soon will adorn the lawn. They look much better this year and with the special bracing of the chairs are useable. Before it while sitting on one you leaned back you were quite liable to go all the way, a mean trick.

Jim Fice of Toronto while visiting a resident Wednesday evening incidentally gave us some piano music and also some baritone voice which is really good. For awhile we were nicely entertained. He was accompanied by a relative, Madeline Howarth of Kimmount, who sang a melodious two-part duet with Jim.

Friday afternoon was the monthly birthday party celebrating another year for Della Roberts, May Emerson, Watson Anderson, Ray Smith, Edna Levely, Maude Weston, Albert Sopher and Bert McKelvey, nearly a crowd. Glenda Burk, daughter-in-law to Pat was the M.C. Betty Salvatori, pianist, accompanied the singing. It made for a very nice party and then the cake came, was portioned and served, and ate. We thank you folks that helped us to celebrate.

Was it Boyle who said that if a thing can happen it will happen and already Jean Chretien is clamoring to have French entrenched in Canada's constitution. We would suggest that before that happens Quebec must entrench herself in Canada. That has still not been done and some referring down the road could result in a separate Quebec. When Quebec entrenches herself in Canada we will entrench French in the Canadian constitution. That sounds reasonable to us. Until Quebec is entrenched in Canada, French must not be, an extension of Boyle's law. Nancy Picard and Peggy Neville did now show Thursday evening but Ray Jenkins did and put on a real nice

There were lots of visitors at Hyland Crest over the long weekend. On the holiday Monday, the volunteer workers came in to conduct the fun and fitness program and crafts. Our thanks to Carrie and Percy Drysdale, Fern Donnelly, Florence Robb and Kathy Eastman for making it a fun day for the residents.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Douglas Miller of the Minden United Church held the chapel service. Mrs. Agnes Taylor played the organ for us while we sang some familiar hymns.

After lunch, it was movie time. Anatomy of Vacation, was a beautiful scenic picture filmed in Bermuda. We saw the abundance of flowers and wild fruits growing on the island. The beaches are a wondrous work of nature. The sand is pinkish in colour and the light blue water was described by Mark Twain "as if the sky had fallen into the ocean." Interesting to note is a single cloud which hangs continually over the island. It is called the "Ghost of Morgan". It is a most relaxing vacation spot and many people go back year after year.

There are 50,000 packets of seeds sent out in the mail each year with hopes that the flowers will multiply and live on. The miles of flowers is described as a tapestry of wonder.

Everyone seems to be enjoying the change of music at our fun and fitness program. We would like to thank Fern Donnelly for the old time fiddle record. The toe tapping music certainly has everyone in a good mood by the end of the session.

The ladies of Tory Hill U.C.W. brought a variety of sandwiches and cookies for the afternoon tea party on Thursday. It was nice to visit with the ladies and enjoy their homemade goodies.

Friday afternoon, Grace Coburn was here to lead the sing song. Lucille Clarke with Grace to accompany her on the piano. Singing is a good relaxing way to end the week of activities.

Senior Citizens Week is drawing near, and we have many activities planned. Senior Citizens Week is June 15 to 21 this year. One of the main activities is the annual Over 70's dinner. It will be held on June 17 at 5:30 p.m. The dinner is the one event that everyone enjoys and looks forward to every year.

The weather has been gorgeous this week and many residents have been seen walking around Makaville. We are all happy that the nice weather is finally here.

Glamorgan seniors meet

The regular meeting of the Glamorgan Senior Citizens Club met in the fire hall a Gooderham on Wednesday May 14.

After Bob Stark, student minister of the United Church, asked the blessing, 55 people sat down to a hot meal prepared and served by the ladies of the club under the chairmanship of Marjorie Madill. Among the guests was Mrs. Robertson of Toronto, who was visiting her daughter, Dorothy.

With the assistance of Norman Graham, a special programme was arranged for the evening. Mrs. Junkin, president of the Kawartha Lakes Fiddlers' Association introduced her group of musicians and the wives. Fred Taylor and his orchestra delighted the group with an evening of music. Square and round dancing made a full evening of entertainment. Jimmy Thompson, 83 years old, stole the show with his tap dancing.

Jean Frazer ably expressed appreciation and the thanks of our club to the Kawartha Lakes Fiddlers' Association

Kinmount Korner

Did you know that we have one terrific library, right here in Kinmount? It's absolutely free to anyone living in Victoria County and there's a real assortment of reading material. Why buy books when you can get what you want right here? The hours are 2 to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays; 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Fridays and 2 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. Reading is like next to being there!

There will be a puppet show put on by the Deck Hands Group, May 31 at 1 p.m. and will be held in the Kinmount Public Library. The performing acts will be "Cinderella" and "The Elephant's Child" and it's absolutely free to all ages, young and old. Why not come out, enjoy yourself, maybe browse around, take home a book or two. Take advantage of what some of your tax dollars pays for. The kids will love it and it will bring back a little bit of yesterday for you.

Visitors at the home of Bill and Win Wilson of RR 1, Kinmount, over the weekend were daughter Joan and Harold Mills and Jennifer and Mike of Pickering. Joan is a teacher at a public school in Pickering and as a class project she brought in five eggs which she faithfully turned every day in the incubator which the school janitor had fixed up for the big occasion. Finally, two black and three white chicks are developing from the little yellow chicks that were. They now are making their home at the Wilson home. Joan is now working on getting some ducklings hatched out.

Ruby Schell, Kinmount, had as guests on Sunday, May 18, two sisters and a brother-in-law. Vera Clark, Jackson's Point and Eva and Bert Smith, Toronto. They had intended staying for the day but a couple of "sneaky" friends talked them into staying over the night and on Monday, May 19 (Ruby's birthday) they, Aileen Brown and Margaret Kyle walked in, along with other friends, about 13 in all, complete with a beautiful cake made by Aileen, whom I'm told, is very good at it and ice cream. A very enjoyable time was had by all. Happy belated birthday, Ruby.

Happy 81st to Dave Crichton, RR 1, "Coby", on May 17. Dave and Gerlie's family were up from Toronto and Bay Ridges to help them celebrate his day.

On Tuesday, May 13 the senior citizens of "Coby" and area held a pot luck supper at the Lions Community Hall in Cobocok, where election of new officers was observed. President: Hilda Chynoweth, Vice President: Dorothy Brown, Treasurer: Weldon Neil, Corresponding Secretary: David Crichton, Food Convener: Laura Irvine and Card Convener: Marg Fountain. Congratulations all!

Glad to hear Gerlie Crichton is coming along as well after her recent illness. Visitors at the home of Bill and Ruth Menard, Kinmount, May 19 were Ruth's sister and brother-in-law, Kay and Warren Hastings of Toronto.

From the reports of several neighbours and sight seeing people, Monday night, I hear the fireworks display over the Gull River was spectacular and was put on by Bill and Lorrie Moss in Norland. Sorry we missed it.

Mary L. Pyke, Helen Graham and Lorrie Moss, all of Norland, spent the day in Orillia on Tuesday, May 20.

John McGrath, Kinmount Legion Branch #441, Zone F4, on Sunday, May 18 held their election of officers followed by a joint installation. Men installed are: Comrade Norman Gilmore as President; Past President: Allen Brown; 1st vice president: Bill Lilley; 2nd vice president: Jim Hawkey; appointed secretary treasurer: Mrs. Maxine Cross; Sgt. at Arms: Chas. Cross; executive: comrade Earl Hartin, comrade Jim Nightingale; comrade Fred Knight; comrade Bert Young; comrade Norm Silvers. Ladies installed: Dagmar Simpson as president; past president: Lil Platt; 1st vice president: Ruth Menard; 2nd vice president: Lyla Shaw; secretary: Marie Rasmussen; Sgt. at Arms: Violet Schroter; executive: Joyce Brown, Gerlie McKay, Violet Cook, Margaret Hawkey. Zone commander: Phyllis Montamiglio.

Many happy years are wished to Johanna Heyink and Robert Card. Marriage to take place June 7, in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Card, Hedge Rd., Jackson's Point.

Reg and Barbara McCluney, Kinmount, have just returned from Nova Scotia where they attended their son Michael's graduation at Cornwallis Army Base. As this was the 12th anniversary of the recruit training program, a special honour guard was picked from the 1250 at camp to perform a sunset ceremony which lasted two hours. Our Michael was one of the 128 picked for this event.

I enjoyed our chat, Barbara and welcome home to you and Reg.

May 30, 31 and June 1, "Fastbreak", starring Gabriel Kaplan, will be the movie playing at the Highlands Cinema in Kinmount and King Kong, remember him? - will be showing June 6, 7 and 8 starring Jeff Bridges, Charles Grodin and introducing Jessica Lange. If you require further information regarding the theatre, give Keith Stata a call at 488-2107.

Here's one of those quick easy recipes that all the little ones like and some of the big ones too: Chow Mein Noodles: 1/2 cup of peanut butter, 1 pkg. of butterscotch chips, 1 tin chow mein noodles. Melt peanut butter and chips together. Remove from stove and stir in noodles. Drop from teaspoon onto waxed paper and cool in fridge.

Another one is called Quick Cookies: spread graham crackers in bottom of 8" X 8" pan. Mix together 1/2 tin of sweetened milk, 1 1/2 cups of coconut and spread over the wafers. Melt a 6 oz. pkg. of semi-sweet chocolate chips and spread over the top and chill. These are very tasty.

I was in Lindsay on Friday What a busy place! I met an old friend down there. So nice to see you again, Cora Lake. I enjoyed our visit. You too, Grace and Joe England.

A carload of "Rowdies" spent some time Saturday in Kinmount being very obnoxious. The end result were some arrests and possible charges being laid after the flag and rope at the P.O. were stolen. I hear these clowns were all over the P.O. roof. They have been kicked out of their tree!

Congratulations to Roy Ash who recently was promoted from Lt. Col. to Col. and will be Governor and Commander of the Church Lads Brigade in Newfoundland and Labrador. Roy will be the first person to hold this position; a great honour!

The sum of $240 was realized from the proceeds of the early bird games at the "Coby" Legion for the past month and presented to a young lady, Thursday night, to help her on her way towards being the recipient of a motorized wheelchair. She and her mother graciously thanked one and all and to prove that there are still very caring people left in this old world, a lady who wishes to remain anonymous, very generously gave a further $100 towards the chair. Many thanks to all concerned. I was very sorry to hear of Nora Brandon twisting her ankle on Friday afternoon. She is now wearing a cast on a broken ankle. Not very nice when the warm weather is upon us. Take it easy Nora and get well soon.

Welcome home to Vi and Albert Crego, our happy travellers. Albert is looking forward to their next trip.

Give me a call at 488-2399 for any announcements you may like to see in print and 'til next we meet, keep well and have a nice day.

Farm News and Views

Farmers in Victoria and Haliburton Counties have enjoyed very good weather for spring seeding this year. In many other parts of southern Ontario, frequent rains delayed most work on the land until the last week or so.

The planting of spring grains - oats, barley, and mixed grain - is completed in this area. The grain in most fields is up and growing well.

The final fields of corn have just been planted. Early planted fields are up. Spraying for weed control is common on many corn fields using pre or early post emergence herbicides.

Several farmers in Victoria County are growing soybeans this year. Planting of this crop is well underway.

Almost all winter wheat fields came through the winter in excellent condition. Apparently the lack of snow cover kept the wheat in a deep dormant state, thus helping it survive the winter cold. This also prevented snow mold developing and causing problems.

Hay is the major crop in these counties. The rain followed by hot weather last week, has spurred growth of all hay and pasture fields. We should have a good crop of hay again this year.

Alfalfa Weevil
Checks on several alfalfa fields show there are large populations of adult weevil, and some small larvae already active.

The adults have been busy laying eggs on alfalfa plants. Hot weather will now bring on a rapid hatch of these eggs, with the larvae causing damage by eating the alfalfa leaves.

Farmers should check their alfalfa fields two or three times a week now, to determine how extensive the weevil damage is. For a while, the plants can grow faster than the small weevil can eat. However, as the weevil get larger and the plant growth slows down, damage can soon become severe.

The only effective means of preventing excessive weevil damage is by cutting the alfalfa for hay or haylage. The best feed for livestock is in the alfalfa leaves - don't lose them to the alfalfa weevil.

Spraying Spring Grain
Pay Lynch had a comment on this topic in last week's "Perth County Farm News". It's excellent, so we're sharing it with our readers this week.

"Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes." This command was commonly given in battle many years ago. Some of the older guns had poor accuracy and if a soldier didn't fire his weapon until he could see "the whites of the eyes" of his enemy, he increased the chances of killing him. The soldier firing, also got a good close-up of a dramatic end to his foe.

There are some old ideas about spraying spring grain. One of these notions is to delay spraying until the weeds are high. This way you can have a very dramatic kill. This could be referred to as "revenge spraying", since the weeds have already done most of the damage.

It is the early stages that weeds do the most damage. You have to get rid of them early to reduce this early competition. As well, the grain is more tolerant when it is small, and the weeds are easiest to kill when they are small. Spray your grain when it has five to six leaves, or is about 4" high.

Hog Stabilization Payment
Pork producers noted with interest the recent announcement by Agriculture Minister, Mr. Whelan, that there will be a stabilization payment on hogs marketed from April 1, 1979 to March 31, 1980.

Many producers have been contacting the County Agricultural Office inquiring about obtaining the necessary application form for this stabilization payment.

These forms are presently being printed and arrangements have been made with the Ontario Pork Producers Marketing Board to have a copy mailed directly to each producer in the province. As a result, producers can expect to receive these applications by mail in the next few weeks.

Time for fitness is time on your side.

- Intended for last week -
"A lot of good could be accomplished in this world if nobody cared who got the credit."

Doris Keown is now a patient in Huntsville hospital, having been transferred there from Toronto General. We send her our best wishes.

We send best wishes for a complete and quick convalescence to Murray McEachern who has returned home after spending some time in Huntsville hospital.

On Wednesday of last week the Dorset Senior Club entertained the Baysville and Dwight senior groups at the Dorset Community Centre when they had Dr. Joe Hunt as a speaker on the subject of retirement. There were approximately sixty in the enthusiastic audience who enjoyed the humorous and informative address by the doctor. Refreshments were served to finish off the evening.

On Thursday evening a bus of men and women which included groups from St. Mary Magdalene's, Dorset, St. Ambrose, Baysville and All Saints, Huntsville, travelled to Parry Sound to attend the Ascension Day service at Trinity Church. The sermon was preached by Rev. Atkinson of Gravenhurst. The capable bus driver was Grace VanSetters and there was lots of happy singing on the way home, as many of the All Saints choir members were present.

The area was packed with holidayers over the long weekend although the weather was unpredictable. The blackflies are with us in full force which makes for unpleasantness at least. Everyone is trying to get his or her garden in and has to fight those pests. Why are we plagued with these little monsters at the most beautiful time of the year?

A delightful party was held at the Frost Centre last Friday. The occasion was in celebration of the 90th birthday of Tommy Craine who was employed by the Department of Lands and Forests for many years and retired from the position of accountant at the then "Forest Ranger School", which he had held a good number of years, in 1960. There were approximately 40 who attended the affair coming from all parts of the province. The festivities started with a social hour in the common room of Dorm 70 followed by a roast beef dinner in the cafeteria. The group retired to the common room where there was much reminiscing, as many of those present had not seen each other in a number of years. There was a beautifully decorated cake which Tommy proceeded to cut very efficiently. Tommy was presented with a plaque from the Province of Ontario congratulating him, and signed by M.P.P. Frank Miller and M.P. Stan Darling. Mr. Craine now lives at the Empire Hotel, in Huntsville, and we wish him many more years of health and happiness.

Note: Try putting a frosted or decorated cake on the lid of the cake tin then put the deep part of the cake tin over it. In this way you don't mess up the frosting getting the cake out of the tin.

The Anglican ladies are planning a rummage sale on Thursday, May 29 at 7 p.m. at the church. If you have anything to donate please call 766-2237.

Wilberforce News

It's certainly been a busy little place, 'our town' this past week! These long, balmy days seem to draw us outside to either participate in or be spectator at a variety of events. It is unfortunate that some pastimes of less than a constructive nature were part of the weekend scene.

But firstly of more positive news: A very large first birthday party was held at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre Friday evening. Congratulations to 'Youth in Action' as they enter their second year of productive existence. Many parents came along to view a worthwhile film called 'Tough Men', as well as some light-hearted skills performed by the kids. They also enjoyed the talented piano recitals and vocal presentations. Space does not allow mention of all who were involved in the evening, but special congrats to the adults who devote themselves to our local young folks each Monday at 7:00 p.m. Anyone interested, please drop in.

On Saturday evening, six enthusiastic young singers presented a Gospel concert at the Memorial Centre. The audience made up in spirit what they lacked in number in their appreciation of the joyful entertainment. At the same time, St. Joseph's Choir of Bramalea under the capable direction of Ann Smith, delighted listeners at St. Margaret's with their renditions of sacred music. Shades of hills alive with the sound!

On a less positive note, not many hours later on Sunday morning, two local businesses were the target of vandalism. Thankfully such wanton displays are relatively rare in our town, but the reasoning behind such senseless destruction is still difficult to comprehend. It would be at least just, if not in fact a deterrent to further acts, that any apprehended vandal be forced to make retribution in the form of their own physical labour. In this way they would be faced with the consequences of their actions from the victims' viewpoint, in a personal, memorable fashion.

The ladies of Monmouth are back on the diamond again having acquired some welcomed new players. They suffered a loss against Minden 16 - 10 on Tuesday, but bounced back to defeat Gooderham 17 - 7 on Thursday. Come on out the next home game and cheer 'em on!

Coming up on Friday the 30th at the Memorial Centre, will be the Minor Hockey League's annual banquet. All players, parents and guests are welcome - it's a potluck style so just bring along a dish and enjoy the films, and trophy presentations. Things get rolling at 6:30 p.m.

Just a reminder to all parents in the area having children enrolled in the elementary school system: the Dental Coach is back in Wilberforce. Parents are urged to register their children in order to enable Dr. Banting to arrange prompt care as soon as possible. This is a wonderful opportunity to have the children's teeth taken care of at no charge, courtesy the Department of Health, so parents, get on the phone and start calling the Coach at 448-2011. Any children from Kindergarten up to and including Grade 8 are eligible; please register - least by June 20.

It may have appeared that an anxious shopper just couldn't wait for the store to open on Monday, but it never pays to jump to conclusions. That was certainly the case on Sunday morning when a small car was noticed parked within the Liquor Store. It was an accident that could happen to anyone, (has happened already to some of us), and thankfully occurred on a day when folks were passing their time in buildings other than this one, which meant there were happily no injuries.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

Norland was in the news over the Victoria Holiday weekend when a $50,000 Cessna airplane overshot its mark on Shadow Lake landing on shore and hitting several trees. The damage to the plane was considerable but fortunately the pilot, David Button of Stouffville was unhurt. The plane was stopped by the trees within about eight feet of Tom Hibbard's cottage on the Shadow Lake Road. We surmise that the pilot who had planned to visit the Hibbard's next door neighbour, had not allowed for the 20 knot winds that were blowing that day and the seaplane continued on to shore instead of stopping on the lake. The Hibbards were not at their cottage at the time of the accident. The township firemen were called to the scene of the crash about 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 17 when it was discovered that the aircraft's gasoline was leaking from the damaged wings and a chance of fire was imminent. The fire trucks had just been returned for a short time when the firemen received a fire call about 8:30 p.m. to the Lutterworth waste disposal site that was completely engulfed in flames. The men were able to contain the fire in one area and prevent it from spreading into the bush but they were on duty watering down the area until nearly midnight.

There was a smaller crowd than usual at the gala display of fireworks in Ward Memorial Park on Sunday evening, May 18. After the heavy rain all day, many people thought that the performance would be cancelled or changed to Monday night but the group in charge decided to carry on with the original plans. Everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy the show and some of it was caught by camera as we saw on the editorial page of last week's Echo (May 21). A good safety factor was the damp conditions underfoot and little chance of starting a fire from lighting fireworks in the park on Sunday evening.

farmers have since said how much that all-day downpour was needed for farm pastures and hay. Every cloud has a silver lining!

Winner of the first contest at the Red and White store, Norland on Saturday, May 17 was Mrs. H. Farrington of the Wee Boutique Shop on Highway 35 just south of Norland.

Mrs. Farrington's prize was a Philips food processor which I'm sure that she will find most useful. Prizes will be drawn each Saturday evening for the next three weeks. Entry forms are in the booklet "Championship Book of Values" that was delivered locally to each householder by mail about two weeks ago.

On Wednesday, May 28 an Adult Immunization Clinic will take place in Fenelon Falls Public School from 2:00 to 7:00 p.m. This is an opportunity to receive without charge, your polio and tetanus booster shot. Good health is important to everyone.

The Home and School Association of Norland Elementary School is busy trying to raise money to purchase much needed gym equipment for the students. This Saturday, May 24 many of the pupils are walking in a 3-mile sponsored walkathon and on Saturday, June 7 from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. a dance will be held in Norland Community Hall. Gary Peters and his group Wildwood will supply the music, bar will be licenced.

What a beautiful time of year! The lilacs are blooming and apple trees are looking their best. Gardeners are looking for some rain as everything is so dry. We must all be extra careful with fire these days - just keep remembering all those in the north-west who are being driven from their homes because of forest fires most of which were caused by human error.

Last Thursday night, we were treated to a band concert at the high school. When the senior band opened the program with "O Canada" and we all stood at attention, I had a great feeling of pride in being a Canadian. We heard selections by the senior band, the junior band as well as the stage band and also duets, solos, etc. This was an excellent program but I imagine the small attendance was a little disappointing for the students and music teacher who put a lot of effort into the preparation. Many of the students had spent the day at a track meet in Peterborough and returned to the school to perform for us.

Mercury found in fish living in acidic water

found in fish from lakes with larger drainage basins. In lakes with low acidity and high buffering capacity the sizes of drainage basins did not have any measurable influence on fish mercury concentration.

"The results indicate that acid stress in lakes may be a pre-condition for the faster uptake of mercury by fish," Dr. Parrott said. "To further clarify the effect of lake acidity and mercury contamination of fish on human health, we are continuing research on the relationship between mercury contamination of yearlings and of adult sportfish in acid stressed precambrian lakes."

The use of yearling fish for the study of water conditions has been developed since 1975 by Environment Ontario's limnology and toxicity section. Young fish travel only short distances and their analysis therefore pinpoints sources of contamination better in space and time than a study on older fish. This investigation can also indicate quickly and reliably changes in contamination and the effect of abatement measures.

Young fish sampling has also been used in mercury investigations in the Wabigoon-English River area; to measure the quality of effluents from sewage treatment plants; to identify contaminant sources in the Great Lakes and for contaminant trend monitoring.

On our daily walks we can't help but be impressed by those huge dandelion clumps on the road side, some may be a hemispheric foot in size. On the assumption that green manure is the best, it may be a good idea to take a barrow along and fill it with clumps after all the sand and gravel is shaken away. Then in planting the seedlings a clump could be put into each planting hole, chopped a bit with a shovel, then flooded with water making a miniature compost for each seedling. Apart from anything else such a stunt would allow the seedling to have two degrees more frost than otherwise.

There is a .50 cent admission charge on Saturday morning but none in the afternoon in the library.

Seems strange to be announcing the results of the hockey pool contest when the temperature is at 82 degrees F. but the hockey play-offs are still going on and the winner of Norland Firefighters' Pool on Saturday, May 17 was Brenda Greer.

Derek Spencer of Norland Sanitation and Maintenance Services has his schedule for garbage pick-up in this area and if you are interested in being carefree for this unpleasant chore call him at 454-8661 or 454-3541. Residential pick-up of one to four bags or items at one pick-up per week is $1. with pick-up day on Monday. There are also other days and more pick-ups available for businesses. Don't forget - you must first contact Derek before your garbage can be picked up.

About 65 ladies attended the Victoria East District Women's Institute annual meeting in Fenelon Falls United Church on Thursday, May 22. President, Mrs. Oscar Carew welcomed the W.I. members from 11 branches and greetings were extended from the Blythe branch that was the hostess group in charge. Since this has been designated as "The year of the Women's Institute" in Ontario, instead of a speaker, 4 branches were asked to present short skits. Roll call was answered with

"What the year of the W.I. means to your branch." Following lunch a memorial service in memory of the past year's deceased members was aptly given by the Blythe branch. Reports were heard with a special message of next year's events from home economist, Mrs. Christine Dukelow. New officers were elected and Norland's W.I. member, Mrs. Jean Stewart was installed as new president of Victoria East District W.I. To acknowledge the honor, branch president Mrs. Pat Watson presented Jean with a corsage from the Norland members.

Gooderham News

by Mary/Hadley

Mrs. Elva Bates was a guest at the wedding of Marlene Selwood at Newmarket on Saturday. Marlene formerly lived in Gooderham. Following the wedding, Elva went to Toronto to visit her new grandson Christopher Patrick Ward and his parents Patsy and Walter Ward. Christopher was born May 21.

Lee McQuillan of St. Catharines visited her grandmother, Claribel Sheehan, over the holiday weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hunter and granddaughter Tara, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Alsop.

Bot Construction are laying asphalt on Highway 503. This started at Tory Hill and will continue to just west of Gooderham. Among the many cottagers who opened up their cottages over the weekend were: Marion James and her son Norman and his family, Clara Newstead and Margaret Hopkinson, Mrs. Funk and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jackman, and Mr. and Mrs. Bacon. We always look forward to seeing these friends return. Several canoes have been seen on Pine Lake.

We also welcome back to our community, Elda and Jack Hunter, Gladys and Aldridge Hunter, Beulah and Gordon Barr, Mabel Winder and Claribel Sheehan who spent the winter in Florida.

About 300 partook of a bountiful summer salad supper in the Gooderham United Church, Saturday, May 14, sponsored by the Tory Hill Pastoral Charge.

A course in weaving is being given in the Gooderham school sponsored by Sir Sandford Fleming College. About 10 ladies are being taught by Miriam Lewis.

John Eakins, M.P.P. attended a meeting of Glamorgan municipal council and senior citizens last week.

Visitors with Audrey Prentice were her daughter Susan and husband Bob, also her daughter Barbara and grandson, Douglas, who remained for the week.

Glamorgan volunteer firemen responded quickly and efficiently when a fuel oil tanker caught fire while delivering oil at Hubert Alsop's.

Without their assistance, it could have been disastrous. Good work, men!

It is nice to see Leslie Fotheringham able to be out after his serious accident.

Also welcome to our community is Bob Stark of Napanee, student minister of the Tory Hill Pastoral Charge. He will assist the regular minister, Maurice Bradley, for the summer months, after which he will return to Queen's University.

Fitness fits in.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

It is starting out as another beautiful week. Sure it is a lot cooler, but knowing that there has been some rain north and that it did even a wee bit to help the men fighting those horrible forest fires makes a person not mind if one has to wear a sweater. After all, it is still May and it really was hot for a few days. It was wonderful weather for putting in the gardens but even with the heat there were still those little blackflies around, and to make it worse now the mosquitoes have started to bite and they are big but at least one can see and hear them.

Birthdays at "Hyland Crest" for the month of June are - Emma Stitt, 3rd; Alice Pogue, 10th; Ethel Boice, 17th; Maude Miller, 17th; Emily Priddy, 23rd; Ada Lewis 27th; Agnes Lansfield, 27th. Remember a card lets one know you are thinking of them.

Congratulations to Len and Marg Lonsberry who celebrated their 34th wedding anniversary on Sunday last. Their whole family helped them celebrate this occasion. Isn't it surprising what a little paint will do to a store front or home. When one walks around the main street one can see everything starting to take on the new look.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson spent one day last week with the Paul Cockburn's in Woodville.

Winners for the first two weeks at Minden Red and White were Marilyn Bagshaw - the food processor; Mrs. A.E. Price - the slow cooker.

These will make everyone's mouth water so try them, why don't you. Apple sauce - Meatballs - 2 cups ground beef; 1 cup apple sauce; 1 cup soft breadcrumbs; 2 eggs; salt and pepper to taste; flour; 2 tsp. shortening; 1 stalk celery, thinly sliced; 1 green pepper (minced); 1 carrot thinly sliced; 2 cups tomato juice. Mix beef, applesauce and breadcrumbs; add eggs; season with salt and pepper. Shape mixture into small balls, roll in flour and brown in hot shortening. Place meatballs in a casserole. Drain off excess fat. To drippings in pan, add vegetables and tomato juice. Season with salt and pepper, bring to a boil; pour over meatballs. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 40 minutes. If desired, the gravy can be thickened with a little flour and water paste before serving. Serves 8.

Mr. P. Kraemer has now brought his plants, etc. into town and you can find him at the fruit stand down near the I.G.A.

Next Tuesday evening is the next meeting of the Horticultural Society at the municipal office at 7:30 p.m. The society is having a drive for members and if they get a good response it will help them in their grant. You see each member they have will give them $1. more grant money; so if you have not joined yet this year do try to come to the meeting and join the society. Just remember the date, June 3, 7:30 p.m.

On the long holiday weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Snell and Karen, also Mr. and Mrs. Ian Minto went to Dryden to visit Lorne Snell. On Friday, June 6, there will be a bag sale upstairs in the parish hall of St. Paul's Church.

Dennis Moore who is taking a course at Base Borden spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moore.

The Minden United Church Women will hold their June meeting next Wednesday the 4th, in the form of a pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m. The evening will be spent in games of all sort.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Snell held a birthday party at their home for Maxine's mother, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson who was 75 years young. Over 50 people were present and the grandchildren and great grandchildren presented her with a beautiful flower arrangement; the gift from the immediate family was a lovely watch.

The Minden Women's Institute held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Mervin Bunker. Some of the members went to the meeting in old-fashioned costume and after the meeting had their pictures taken for the Tweedsmuir history book. After the reading of the minutes the card convener reported sending 31 cards since the April meeting.

A letter from the school and the report of the judging at the school resulted in a discussion by the members and this resulted in a motion that from now on, one special prize is to be given to each age group participating in Haliburton Fall Fair and the committee will contact the chairlady of the junior prize list and an advanced list will be sent to all schools when it is prepared in late fall.

Members present expressed what the W.I. meant to them as they joined it and on down through the years.

The vacant offices were filled at this meeting and ladies who wished to go to the district annual May 22 were asked to meet at the post office.

whether we are getting what we are paying for.
Think of it - $400 million.

Anyone Heard of Kagawong?

We have received a letter at the Chamber from a party in Colorado who wishes to reach someone who was involved with a Camp Kagawong in the late 40's or early 50's. We have no records of it so we thought some of our readers might. If you can help, give us a call at the Chamber, 286-1760.

Anson, Hindon, Minden council

Anson, Hindon and Minden council met to review the expenditure section of the 1980 budget, Tuesday, May 20.

It was also decided that "Whereas the Provisional County of Haliburton has completed Planning Development Strategy for the county excluding the Township of Dysart et al, which has been endorsed by the Minister of Housing; and whereas the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden is situated within the Provisional

County of Haliburton and intends to make application for a loan under the Main-street Revitalization Program; and whereas an official plan is required to qualify for said loan; council will petition the Ministry of Housing to accept the Development Strategy document in lieu of an official plan for the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

County council

ration was fully discussed relative to a draft policy to be established by the county relative to requests for closure of the 66-foot original allowance for road, such policy to be consistent for all municipalities in the county.

Identification

your property with an "invisible ink" which becomes visible under a special light, one of which is located at the Minden OPP detachment. In cases involving the theft of property it is vital that the property can be positively identified. Marking, and recording the serial numbers of all your valuable property is a critical part in the recovery of lost or stolen goods.

If you wish further information about this matter, please contact the Minden OPP at 286-1431 or contact your insurance agent.

Mrs. Milt Sears gave her report for the year. You know the W.I. does more than people realize each year, but it is done without fanfare.

Mrs. M. Sears gave a history of a local family and had the Tweedsmuir books on hand for the ladies to look at. She then read two verses.

When the meeting closed, lunch was served by the ladies in charge.

The next meeting on June 18 will be at Minden United Church, and will take the form of a pot luck luncheon to start at 12:30 p.m. Please bring your own dishes and cutlery so that no one will miss any of the fun after the meeting. All ladies are cordially invited to join with the W.I. on this occasion.

Adios and take care now.
